Reflection

Sometimes it seems that the more material possessions we have the more we are a slave to them.

Think of your car. If it's an old beater, it takes just enough maintenance to keep it running. It requires minimal insurance, not much soap and polish, and theft protection is unnecessary. But, if you just purchased a car that cost more than your first house, you can bet it will be in a garage, insured extensively, equipped with anti-theft devices, and cleaned and polished often. Easier than any of this would be to ride a horse ... or a donkey colt.

Zechariah shows us that the king will come victoriously in peace riding humbly on a donkey colt. He has no need to flaunt his greatness. As a matter of fact, this king will do away with all that the world has come to know as greatness. He will do away with chariots and war horses.

So what does it mean for us to serve this king? He demands one thing of us: love. We must love God, our neighbors, and our enemies. This is not a crushingly heavy load for those with humble hearts. Jesus gives us a yoke of constraint, but also gives us the grace to carry it. We are never alone with the burden of Jesus.

The Person You Are

"The thoughts you think become the words you speak;
The words you speak
Become the actions you do;
The actions you do
Become the person you are."

Blessed are they who place themselves in the hands of Jesus. He will place himself in their hands.

St. Kateri Tekakwitha is the first Native American to be recognized as a saint by the Catholic Church. She was born in 1656, in the Mohawk village of Ossernenon. Her mother was an Algonquin, who was captured by the Mohawks and who took a Mohawk chief for her husband.

She contracted smallpox as a four-year-old child which scarred her skin. The scars were a source of humiliation in her youth. She was commonly seen wearing a blanket to hide her face. Worse, her entire family died during the outbreak. Kateri Tekakwitha was subsequently raised by her uncle, who was the chief of a Mohawk clan.

At age 19, Kateri Tekakwitha converted to Catholicism, taking a vow of chastity and pledging to marry only Jesus Christ. Her decision was very unpopular with her adoptive parents and their neighbors. Some of her neighbors started rumors of sorcery. To avoid persecution, she traveled to a Christian native community south of Montreal.

Kateri was very devout and was known for her steadfast devotion. She was also very sickly. Sadly, just five years after her conversion to Catholicism, she became ill and passed away at age 24, on April 17, 1680.

Her name, Kateri, is the Mohawk form of Catherine, which she took from St. Catherine of Siena. St. Kateri Tekakwitha was canonized by Pope Benedict XVI on Oct. 21, 2012. She is the patroness of ecology and the environment, people in exile and Native Americans.

THE TRUE MASTERPIECE

A wealthy widower shared a passion for art with his only son. Together they traveled the world, acquiring a collection of masterpieces. When war was declared, the son joined the army and died heroically saving the life of another soldier. This soldier visited the father after the war, not only to tell of how many other lives the son had saved, but to give the father a portrait he had painted of the young man. The father told all his friends it was the greatest gift he had ever received and gave it pride of place. When the old man died, his will directed that his art collection be auctioned off. Collectors from around the world gathered to bid on the spectacular treasures. The auction began with a small undistinguished painting—the soldier's portrait of the man's son. The auctioneer asked for an opening bid. The room was silent. "Who will open the bidding at a hundred dollars?" he asked. No one spoke. "Who cares about that painting?" shouted someone at the back. "It's just his son. Get on with the good stuff." There were murmurs of agreement. "No, we must sell this one first," replied the auctioneer. "Now, who will take the son?" One man spoke up, "I knew the boy. I bid ten dollars." "Any other bids?" called the auctioneer. "Going once, going twice. Sold!" The gavel fell. Cheers filled the room. Then the auctioneer announced, "The auction is now over." In stunned disbelief someone said, "What do you mean, it's over? We didn't come here for a picture of the old guy's son. What about all of the millions of dollars worth of art here? I demand that you explain what's going on!" The auctioneer replied, "It's very simple. It's the father's will. 'Whoever receives my son . . . will inherit all I have.' "
